RETHINKING
HOW AND WHERE WE LEARN

Reimagined Spaces with Adaptability

Arper has always put flexibility at the forefront of our designs and promoted a sense of balance between work and personal life.

In the following proposals, we have taken some of our favorite designs and explored how they can be personalized and modified to adjust to the evolving needs of this time. With a core value of adaptability, Arper has created flexible furniture to meet the demands of the moment—and every moment to come.

Lobby Area

Public learning areas like lobbies can present an opportunity to rest, recharge, read, or meet in small groups—but at a safe distance. This configuration of Kiik makes the space between seating functional with a small, useful table.

Arper

Education

Break Out Room

Break out areas are essential as informal places to work and exchange ideas. Paravan helps maintain creativity and an exchange of ideas while still safeguarding the space. Cross's expansive tabletop allows for up to 4 individuals at a table while still maintaining safe distancing practices.

Laboratory

Laboratory work stations can increase opportunities for focus and safety with Paravan panels which help to reduce noise as well as keep a safe distance. Here Planesit task chairs and Nuur table combine to create a flexible space to learn.

Arper

Education

Co-Working

Paravan Mood can be used as a desk divider, as seen here with the spacious Cross table and Planesit stools. Used together, these offerings provide safe working spaces while still maintaining a sense of exchange and camaraderie.

Reimagined Spaces with Adaptability

Collaborative work

Individual or small group learning is made possible by Cila Go – an armchair with optional built-in desk or castors. This compact piece is virtually a mobile classroom, all in one chair that can be easily moved, cleaned, and used as storage.

Auditorium

For large groups or auditoriums, Stacy chair, thanks to its light weight, ease of movement and a tablet that can be used as a desk, guarantees the possibility of fast reconfiguration within the space, maintaining an adequate safe distances.

Cafeteria

Communal dining helps foster an exchange of ideas and learning. In our new era, maintaining effective distance is key. Spaced apart but easy to rearrange, these Catifa chairs are lightweight yet durable making them a breeze to reconfigure as needed.

Outdoor Areas

Outdoor areas provide a space for conversation and relaxation. Adell, one of our newest collections, helps to confer a comfortable atmosphere and can be rearranged as needed to meet the demands of the moment.
