Top quality made in Austria

Designline

More than just a tabletop

Topalit stands for top quality tabletops. Made from the finest Austrian woods and manufactured using a special production process, Topalit tabletops offer a range of unique properties. From dining establishments to private gardens, our products have been successfully used around the world for decades.

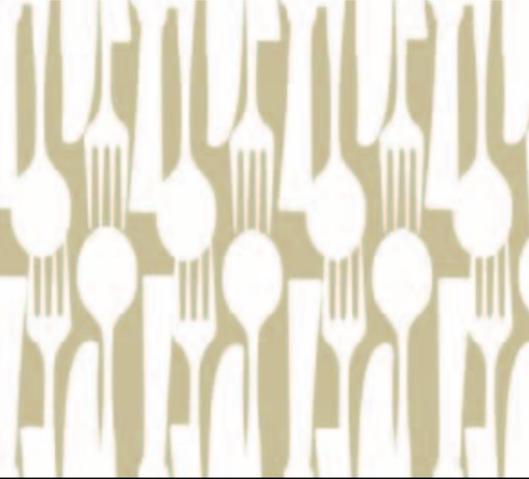

Technical innovations in the production process capture whole new aspects in the new product line Designline: In collaboration with nationally and internationally renowned designers, product ranges have been developed which combine the familiar Topalit quality with artistic and high-quality design solutions.

Customers now also have the possibility to vary the form and colour of these designs themselves, to meet their individual requirements. Topalit therefore offers customisation with perfect processing and precision for a truly different result.

Especially for the high-end dining and hotel industry, Topalit also facilitates the implementation of entirely individual designs. Table patterns can also be customised to match textiles or wall coverings. Topalit offers professional project support and advice in this area for planners, architects and object designers.

Designline therefore stands for innovative design ideas in conjunction with high-quality materials. For modern projects that ensure permanently stable value, while also fulfilling the highest of aesthetic claims.

The team of Topalit

Design and lifestyle.

KISKA

Gerald Kiska is one of the most important product designers in Austria. However, design means more to him than just good styling: creative solutions are only good when aesthetics, function and comfort complement each other in harmony.

National and international awards for his work confirm this stance. For Topalit Designline, KISKA developed a range that is noted for its reduced design language and modern colours.

Designing desire.

Tosi

Italian design with elegance pays homage to the relaxed, southern way of life. Items of daily use should not only be functional, but also aesthetically appealing.

A notable Italian designer has been found in Matteo Tosi.

His range makes reference to natural and stylised elements based on floral motifs.

Topalit

From the house of Topalit originates the design for the "Patterns" range by Austrian designer Bernhard Aichinger, who has already developed many successful decors in the past season.

His modern, repetitive decors exude timeless elegance.

Love means designing your heart & design means loving the art.

Design is the fusion of love and detail.

Design your own tabletop

Our professional designs can be easily modified according to your personal needs

We have designed the production process in a way that you have the possibility to determine either the colour or the pattern for all designs, or even to modify both to suit your requirements. Simply adapt the existing design to your personal preferences, so that it suits you and the desired purpose perfectly:

Choose your favourite design

All Topalit Designline tabletops have been designed by professional designers. Decide which design fits your needs best. Feel free to choose from the options below:

Your Personal Designline

Exclusive: Create your own Design

What's more, you not only have the possibility to pick from our existing range of designs, but also have the chance to put your own creations on the table. You have total freedom to design tabletops fitting your needs. Match them with your interior design by printing elements from your surroundings, such as wallpapers or curtains.

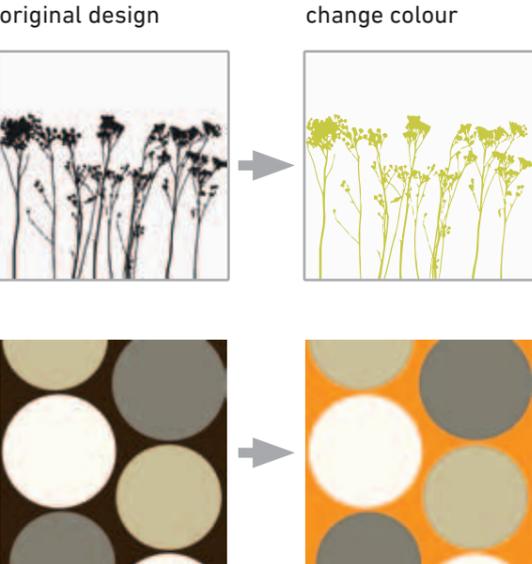

Please talk to your design consultant about the right choice of colour, as not all colours may be suitable for outdoor use. Inform us about your requirements - we look forward to supporting you:
